Words of Wisdom.
"It is not the candidates which give character to the ticket; it is the men who make the ticket; the men whom the ticket represents; and from this day forth, till the polls close, those who speak of it truthfully will be the Grafters' Ticket."—Extract from the Speech of Hon. Wayne MacVeagh.

The silver cord is broken. The REST. ties that have united J. Frank Harclerode to relatives and a host of friends on earth have been loosed and he has passed through the thin veil that separates time from eternity into that realm "from whose bourne no traveler returns."

In his death a true and loyal son, brother and friend has been taken from father, sisters and associates.

In his death the community has lost a man of worth; one with a keen interest in the welfare of the town and county; one ever ready to advance the true, the noble, the uplifting.

In his death THE GAZETTE has lost a careful and vigorous writer, fearless in the performance of duty as it presented itself to him. For fourteen years he has devoted his every energy to maintaining the high standard of the journal, and his fidelity and too close application are perhaps responsible for his laying aside his pen all too soon.

He has been removed at what seemed the high-noon of a useful career but with a hope that gave assurance of acceptance in that better, brighter land.

DRINKING THE DREGS.
The campaign that has been conducted by the Bedford Inquirer has steadily endeavored to deceive the people and keep the voters in the dark with regard to the rottenness of the state machine. It has published as facts what the records show to be lies, which THE GAZETTE has exposed. But it went to the bottom of the pool last week. It drank the dregs of falsehood when it published this statement: When Lincoln lived and was the honored president of this government there was no man so vile for Mr. Tate to apply to him. When President Lincoln was assassinated Humphrey D. Tate was a boy, less than 17 years of age, attending boarding school. Further comment is unnecessary.

AN HONEST (?) RECORD
In a double column article under the caption "An Honest Record" the Bedford Inquirer of last week makes a desperate effort to smooth over the record of the gang commissioners and poor directors. It is held first that none of the members of the old boards are candidates for reelection and therefore the present candidates should not be defeated. They forget that it is the gang that has controlled the office that is to be ousted by defeating those plant cops put up by the gang for the several offices. The candidates for the places have endorsed the machine and will do the bidding of the machine, and this is what the voters will rebuke at the polls. The Inquirer asserts, first, that the officials have honestly executed their trust. This depends on what they consider their trust. If paying $1.25 a gallon for paint that can be bought by individual citizens for 75 cents a gallon; if paying a gang leader a fee of $500, every cent of which was illegal; if making an effort to pay nearly $6,000 to a relative of Baker's for masonry work built—if these things are "faithfully executed their trust" then they have done their duty. How will the voter whose tax has been decidedly increased look upon such action?

The board that the commissioners have reduced the debt has been shown from the records to be the GAZETTE to be false, and the assertion that surrounding counties have larger debts has nothing to do at all with the question of fact in this county, even if it is true as the Inquirer says.

The Cypher bridge was recommended by Treasurer John S. Guyer, County Surveyor Conrad and William Garber, now deceased, as viewers, two of whom are now holding office under the gang. The effort to saddle it onto Mr. Appleman is therefore ridiculous. A few figures from the records will show how Baker and Smith and Miller have saved (2) the county money. The commissioners are paid a daily salary and mileage from their homes. For the eleven quarters of the present term Mr. Baker, who lives six miles from Bedford has drawn $1,951.63; Mr. Smith, who lives nine miles from Bedford, has drawn $2,127.19, while Mr. Appleman, who travels from his home 22 miles distant has drawn $1,590.55.

For distributing ballots Baker has drawn $88.30; Smith $83.35; Appleman $12.75. Do these differences tell anything? But again the clerk in the office of the county commissioners who preceded Mr. Miller drew $138.18 an expense account for his fall term while the gentleman now there has already drawn $451.35 and still has hold of the strings.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free. If you are sure that this picture in the form of a label is the only one of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

TIGER HUNTING.
Luring the Fierce Animals by Intoxicating a Monkey.
To call a tiger the proceeding was as follows: The milk, having first ascertained that a tiger was in the neighborhood, would climb into a well branched, leafy tree situated near where he supposed the tiger to be, and after hiding himself among the branches as best he could would commence to imitate the chattering of a monkey and break and drop twigs in the way that monkeys do.

Then he would let fall to the ground a bunch of dry twigs so that the third when it struck the ground would sound as if a baby monkey had tumbled down from the tree, and at the same time would imitate the supposed baby monkey cries. This would be the supreme moment, for as a tiger were near it would often spring out in the hope of snatching up such a dainty morsel as a young monkey, and then a bullet from the gun of the hidden man might find its billet in the tiger's body. By this means the milk was said to have killed a considerable number of tigers, and certainly the man's power of mimicry was wonderfully good.

The call for deer was of an entirely different nature, the sound imitating the cry of a fawn, and as this cry sometimes attracted tigers, too, it had to be adopted with caution, because it was used only in open grass land, from which the caller would not have had much chance to escape were a tiger suddenly to put in an appearance.—London Times

The Jar of Coughing

Hemmer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and jars the throat and lungs; the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the coughing, and heals the torn membranes.

It is difficult to cure a cough or free yourself from the discomforts of a cold unless you move the bowels. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar acts on the bowels and drives all colds and cures colds, coughs, Whooping Cough, Croup, and all Lung and Bronchial affections, no remedy is equal to the original Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar. A Liquid Cold Cure. Sold at Irvin's drug store.

What England would do, how her people would suffer, it is suddenly difficult to imagine. It is also difficult to imagine how the American people would react so readily if they were suddenly deprived of the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, for in this sovereign remedy they have their only hope of being cured of indigestion, general debility, liver and kidney troubles, general debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, colds and fevers and ague, and all other ailments of the stomach and bowels. Try it today.

The Place For Him.

"He should be kept in with them," replied Crabbe. "Most of his friends are in jail."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Tankerchief.
In some parts of the Tyrol a beautiful though curious custom prevails. When a girl is going to be married and just before she leaves for the church her mother gives her a handkerchief, which is called a tankerchief. It is made of newly spun and unused linen, and with it the girl dries the natural tears she sheds on leaving home. The tankerchief is never used after the marriage day, but is placed in the linen closet, where it remains till the owner's death, when it is taken from its place and spread over her dead face.

Accused With Her.
Tramp (at the door)—If you please, here—Mrs. Nugent (sitting)—There, that will do. I am tired of this everlasting whine of "Lady, lady." I am just a plain woman, and—Tramp—You are, madam—one of the plainest women I've ever seen 'n' one of the honestest to own up to it.

THE MAD DOG FALLACY.
In all my own experience with dogs I have met only one never seen a "mad dog," but only never seen a "mad dog" owner—and by that I mean a man who has had experience in keeping dogs—who has seen one. If, then, rabies is so exceedingly scarce, hydrophobia becomes really an impossibility, and the fear of it should be dismissed without a thought.

THE WORD STAPLE.
How it Came to Be Applied to Articles of Commerce.
The word "staple," applied to an adjective to designate certain articles of commerce, had its origin in England in the early part of the thirteenth century. The merchants of the staple were the first and most ancient and were so called from their exporting the staple wares of the kingdom—namely, wool, leather, skins, lead and tin. The king's staple was established in certain towns, and certain goods could not be exported without being first brought to those towns and rated and charged with the duty payable to the king. The grocer of wool contained himself at first with the sale of it at his own door or at the next town. Thence arose a class of men who bought it from him and became a medium between the grower and the foreign cloth merchants. In 1310 the company had the legal form of a corporation and was the oldest mercantile corporation in England. Edward II. had for the better collecting of duty on wool ordained that the staple for it should be a certain town in the shire of Lancashire, and was fixed upon. It was afterwards successively removed to St. Omers, Bruges, Brussels, Louvain, Mechlin and Calais. In 1333 the staple was fixed at Westminster, which caused so great a resort of traders thither that it was raised to the dignity of a town. In 1378 it was removed to the place still named Staple Inn, in Holborn. Hence "staple goods" are such as have been duly appraised and have paid the regular customs duties.

MILLET'S INFLUENCE.
A Host of Painters Followed Him in Deploring Peasant Life.
In his own words Millet tried to depict "the fundamental side of men and things." His subject was not peasant life, but the representation of it such as one sees in opera or the pretty, sentimental aspect of it, but the actual drama of labor continuously proceeding through the four seasons, the "cry of the soul," echoing in the hearts of the patient, plodding, God-fearing toilers. Everything which typified the life of the "Sower." Of another picture the critic Castagnary wrote: "Do you remember his Reaper? He might have reaped the whole earth!"

LONG BURNING FIRES.
Some in England Which Have Not Been Out For Centuries.
There are domestic fires burning in Yorkshire, England, today which have never been out for hundreds of years. At the old-fashioned farmhouses in the dunes of Yorkshire peat is still burned. The fuel is obtained from the moors, and stacks of it are kept by the farmers in their stock yards.

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

AMERICAN SLAVES
F. W. Jordan's Emancipation Act that Will Free Thousands.
No one appreciates better than the victim of indigestion that he is an American slave to his stomach, and Mr. Jordan, in guaranteeing that his Emancipation Act will strengthen the stomach so that you can eat what you want and when you want it, removes all fear of further bondage.
The stomach is to the body what the foundation is to the house, and when it is weakened or diseased, one organ after another is affected until the heart, lungs, kidneys and liver will all be involved. Indigestion causes nervousness, sleeplessness, head aches, back-aches, distress after eating, furred tongue, and general weakness and debility.
Mr. Jordan is not a mere temporary relief for indigestion, but a positive remedy for all stomach troubles, promoting good digestion, stimulating the secretions and restoring health.
Ask F. W. Jordan to show you his Emancipation Act. A large box of the tablets sells for 50 cents, but costs nothing unless involved. Indigestion causes nervousness, sleeplessness, head aches, back-aches, distress after eating, furred tongue, and general weakness and debility.

History of Smith's Famous Tender Feet Shoes.
CHAPTER VI.
THE TENDER JOINT.
You see an old gentleman limping along and take him for a veteran of the war with a wooden leg—the fact is he has a bunion—maybe it is a young lady hobbling by, and you think she must have been in a railroad wreck—oh no, it is a bunion. You would indeed be surprised if we should tell you how many sufferers from bunions we meet in the course of our business. If every one from childhood wore the proper shoes there would never be a bunion, but the wrong ones are worn, causing bunions, and Smith's Tender Joint Shoe is made to meet this emergency. It is exactly the right shape, giving plenty of room for the enlarged joint, but fitting snugly around all other parts of the foot. Usually persons with bunions or enlarged joints, have to buy shoes one or two sizes too large, this is not necessary now as our Tender Joint Shoes give sure relief and yet fit the foot neatly and look well besides.
